
Fluid Electrolyte And Acid Base Case Study Module

fluid, electrolytes, acid-base and shock - 3. relate common fluid, electrolyte, and acid-base laboratory values and diagnostic tests to normal physiology and pathological disease processes. 4. discuss common causes of fluid, electrolyte and acid-base imbalances 5. discuss nursing responsibilities for assessment, identification, treatment and follow- fluids, electrolytes and acid-base balance - objectives define normal ranges of electrolytes compare/contrast intracellular, extracellular, and intravascular volumes outline methods of determining fluid and acid/base balance describe the clinical manifestations of various electrolyte imbalances. fluid and electrolyte management - jones & bartlett learning - fluid and electrolyte management billie bartel and elizabeth gau le a r n i n g objectives 1. identify and understand basic fluid and electrolyte abnormalities in critically ill patients. 2. differentiate between the types of fluids used for fluid replacement in different disease states commonly seen in the intensive care unit. 3. fluid and electrolyte balance: assessment of the patient - fluid and electrolyte balance and to present a practical approach to the problem based on clinical examination, routine laboratory tests, and radio-logical investigation. in general, fluid and electrolyte disturbances may be classified under three headings: (1) variations in tonicity of the body fluids because of a loss or gain of water. fluid, electrolyte, and acid-base balance - fluid, electrolyte, and acid-base balance distribution of body fluids total body fluids=60% of body weight extracellular fluid comp 20% of total body wt. interstitial= 15% of total body wt. intravascular=5% of total body wt. transcellularfluid, electrolyte, and acid-base balance - intracellular fluid (icf). 15 l of fluids (or 37%) are located outside of body cells, called extracellular fluid (ecf). 80% of ecf is interstitial fluid (which includes lymph, synovial fluid, cerebrospinal fluid, gi tract fluids, and fluids in the eyes and ears), and 20% of ecf is blood plasma. fluid, electrolyte, and acid-base balance - section 1: fluid and electrolyte balance. learning outcomes. 25.1 name the body's fluid compartments, identify the solid components, and summarize their contents. 25.2 explain what is meant by fluid balance, and discuss its importance for homeostasis. 25.3 explain what is meant by mineral balance, and discuss its importance for homeostasis. fluid & electrolyte therapy - westernu - electrolyte loss. • replacement fluid therapy (lrs, plasmalyte a, normosol, 0.9 nacl, etc) is designed to replace existing fluid deficits; this usually requires replacement of both water and electrolytes • the optimal fluid type for each of the above settings depends upon serum electrolytes,
